

Diary of a football fan

A diary is a personal record of daily events. There have been several very famous diaries written and published. Probably the most famous is Anne Frank's Diaries written in hiding during the Second World War.

Your task is to write one day's entry for 'My day out at a football match'. Imagine that you have been to watch your favourite football team on a Saturday afternoon and you write your entry into your diary at the end of the day.

Your entry should include the events of the day, from waking up to the journey to the ground, the match and the journey home. It should also include your thoughts, for example, how you felt during the game.
